OPEN CALL FOR PROPOSALS 30/06/2016

APNEA

APNEA is a serial publication intended to invigorate reflection on various topics using different languages. It is not a scientific or specialized journal. It would be more accurate to refer to it as contributions than resorting to any type of script (poetry, narrative, essay, photography, design, drawing, painting, comics...). It takes a topic, addresses it, discusses it, intervenes and prepares a set of readings that are open to interpretation, discussion, reflection; images, words, signs, strokes... aimed more at creating a suggestive corpus than specialized, irrefutable statements.

Each issue will set forth, by means of an open call for proposals, a topic defined by one word. As part of an exercise in synthesis and creativity, each contribution must be limited to a maximum length, which will be one page of the journal. This is why the magazine takes the form of a miscellany –that kind of publication where different voices and styles were grouped together. Here we will gather contributions distinguished by creative incitement, a sharp view and its capacity to disseminate critical thinking, regardless of the language used, provided it can be printed on paper.

#1. EXILE

Exile. The word itself is already strong, deep and broad enough: it is, indisputably, historical as well as current; it has been - and will continue to be - linked to the future of humanity. The term exile requires but a tiny fragment of a second to alter the mind and unleash a waterfall of reflections. Our invitation is for you to stop at this point in time and submerge yourself in thought: about exile, what to say and how to say it.
